WHY THE HIGH GAS TAX?

In these days of human complexity, taxation becomes a subject that seems with curioities. There is none more striking than the seemingly careless indifference with which the citizenry is loaded with the steadily rising and oppressive taxes on commodities of common use. Gasoline, for instance, is a good example. With legislatures about to swing into action, there is already behind-the-scenes talk of new levies on other articles.

Over the North American continent, gasoline taxes of one variety and another have been running around 100 per cent of the cost of production. With the sole exception of alcohol and cigarettes—and these commodities can scarcely be ranked in the same category as motor fuel—there is no item that bears a tax burden of like proportions.

When one collects the figures, they are little short of amazing. For 1935 these taxes in Canada and the United States reached a total in excess of $200,000,000. But this is not the whole story, for it is by any means the grand total of taxes paid by automobile owners as such. The figures for 1936 are not available, but they are likely to exceed $1,000,000,000. The heftiness of the levy is accentuated by the circumstance that it is more than five times the levy paid by all the Class One railways of the continent.

The mercury hovered around the forty-four-below mark on Wednesday morning, the coldest for the season.

FORMER BLAIRMORE GIRL WEBS AT DRUMHELLER

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized at Knox church, Drumheller, on Thursday evening of last week, when Elizabeth Ruth, only daughter of Alderman and Mrs. Allan Hamilton, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Galloway Russell, son of Mrs. Mary Russell, of Calgary.

The bride was attended by Miss Marjorie Johns, while Mr. Stewart Russell, brother of the groom, acted as groomsmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell will reside in Drumheller.

The bride was a former pupil of the Blaimore public school, prior to her parents removal from Blaimore to Drumheller.

Mr. Hamilton was a former member of the Blaimore board of school trustees and well known in The Pass.

BLAIRMORE SQUAD WINS

Kimberley Orphans entertained the Blaimore squad of the Crows' Nest Pass Loop at the local arena on Saturday night. Between 250 and 300 fans braved the extremely cold weather to witness a good game in which the Crow team outlasted the locals to take a 4-1 decision. The game was very even until the final half of the last period when the staying powers of the visitors proved to be too much, and they were able to ram home the goals that gave them the margin.

A few more games and some training activities will enable the Orphans to hold their own with most of the teams in this district. Dicken and Art Mackie were standouts on the front line of the Kimberley team with Bob Affleck turning in a smart game on defense. Moore and McKenzie were missing from the local lineup. Dave Kemp, one of the best known goalies to ever be turned out from this part of the country appeared in the nets for the Blaimore team and turned in a sweet game.—Kimberley Courier.

Isn't it too bad that the Alberta government should go to the expense of printing thousands of car stickers while they have so many unused prosperity certificate stamps on hand.

Minister to Teachers

(The A.T.A. Magazine)

To the teachers of Alberta I extend my warmest greetings and best wishes as we enter upon the New Year. Those of us who are actively interested in education have reason to feel that substantial progress has been achieved during the past year. A beginning has been made toward certain objectives which will probably require several years to attain in full measure. We have at least the framework of improved types of organization in school administration as well as in the actual work of the classroom. We can now look forward to this and succeeding years, confident that much greater progress is in store for us. With the further development of our educational system the role of the successful teacher is bound to increase in importance. Let me urge our teachers to take a broad view of educational problems in keeping with the high ideals of the profession by which they are now recognized.

Many Alberta teachers, particularly those in the distressed rural areas, have been called upon to work and live under conditions of economic hardship. To them I offer my words of commendation and a note of encouragement. I trust that their loyal efforts in the face of adverse circumstances will be rewarded in the years to come. It is my earnest wish that the year 1937 will be fruitful of results gratifying to all teachers and others whose work lies in the field of education.

WILLIAM ABERHART,
Premier.

COMPLETE LIST OF FESTIVAL COMMITTEE

In connection with the report of the annual meeting of the Crows' Nest Pass Musical Festival, appearing in our last week's issue, certain minor errors occurred. They are not "falsehoods," however, but simply matters overlooked. First: The financial statement submitted showed a surplus for the 1936 festival of $76.26, and a credit bank balance of $529.82.

Below we give the complete list of members of the general committee for the year 1937:

Lethbridge—Mrs. W. D. Campbell and Miss Hilda Sandquist.
Taber—Mr. J. H. Prowse.

Nanton—Mr. Scott Peeples and Miss Alexander.

Clareholm—Mr. Andrew Laurie.
High River—Dr. H. Soby.

Pincher Creek—Mr. A. B. McMurdo, Mrs. W. Graham, Sister Marie St. Maxime (Kermaria Convent), Mrs. A. L. Freebairn and Miss Mae Allison.

Coleman—Rev. H. J. Bevan, Mr. George Pattinson, Mrs. James Cousins, Rev. A. S. Partington, Rev. Father Dunbar, Miss Mae Powell, and chairman of school board.

Fernie—Mr. Angus McPhee, Mr. T. S. Beynon, Mr. Francoise Vernon.

Michel-Natal—Mr. W. J. Harris and Miss Beatrice Trono.

Cranbrook—Mrs. E. W. Sjodin, Mr. A. E. Turner, Rev. R. W. Hardy and Mr. Fred J. Smythe.

Kimberley—Mr. James Pearson, Mr. Openhaw and Mrs. K. Foster.

Hillcrest—Dr. G. Blair Rose, Mr. George E. Cruickshank, Mr. W. H. Moser, Mr. W. H. Stobbs, Rev. John Wood and chairman of school board.

Bellevue—Mr. William Kerr, Mr. Albert Christie, Mrs. Clyde McDonald, Rev. R. Upton and chairman of school board.

Blaimore—Miss M. Chardon, Mrs. L. L. Morgan, Miss G. Steeves, Mrs. S. G. Bannan, Mr. Robert Gray, Mr. W. H. Chappell, Rev. Dean M. A. Harrington, Rev. A. E. Larke, Mr. G. Morris and chairman of school board.

Officers and executive as published in our last issue.

A committee to interview the Crows' Nest Pass Trustees Association with proposal that all school boards make annual grant to festival funds yet to be appointed.

The Edison-Jasper Signal remarks: The electors of Alberta gave a splendid example of sportsmanship in August, 1935. What matters most now is what they bit on—"dividends, food, clothing or shelter." And they must demand results.

CARVER - BENNETT

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bennett announce the marriage of their eldest daughter, Evelyn Ellen, to Eric M. P. Carver, only son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Carver, of Alameda, Alberta.

The wedding was solemnized on Saturday, January 16th, at 11 a.m. at St. Luke's Anglican church, by Rev. A. S. Partington.

After a wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple left for Calgary, and upon their return will make their home in Coleman.

MRS. M. R. H. LLOYD PASSES

Death claimed a Blaimore old-timer on Monday morning last in the person of Mrs. Mary Robertson Horne Lloyd, aged 58.

Mrs. Lloyd passed away at the home of her brother, Robert Horne, after having suffered a stroke on Sunday evening.

She was born in Shropshire, Scotland, and came to Alberta at an early age. She had been a resident of Alberta for the past twenty years or more, and is survived by her husband, Thomas Lloyd, of Coleman; two sons, John, of Coleman, and James at home; a sister and brother, Miss Jessie Horne and Mr. Robert Horne, in Blaimore; and a brother, Thomas Horne, of Edson, Alberta.

The remains were laid to rest on Thursday afternoon, services at the United church and the graveside being conducted by Rev. A. E. Larke. Arrangements were in charge of the Memorial Funeral Home.

LABOR BODY TO MEET MONDAY NEXT

With credentials received from such widely-separated points as Blaimore and Mountain Park, the convention of the Alberta Federation of Labor, which meets in Edmonton on Monday next, promises to be a large and representative gathering of trade unionists of the province.

The Alberta Federation of Labor is the central body of the trade union movement in the province. It is a non-political organization, embracing in its membership trade unionists of the international trade union movement. Its purpose is to promote the legislative interests of wage earners.

The Federation has a splendid record of achievement in the legislative field. Such legislation as the Mines Act, the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Minimum Wage Act, and other measures have resulted from the activities of the organization during the past twenty-five years.

UNITED CHURCH MODERATOR TO VISIT BLAIRMORE

Blaimore is to be signally honored in the coming visit of Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., the moderator of the United Church of Canada.

He is to speak in Central United church at 11 a.m. on Sunday, February 14th. To this service all are cordially invited. An invitation is also being extended to the congregations of neighboring towns to assemble to meet their beloved chief.

In addition to holding the office of moderator, Dr. Bryce is national secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

At the service here, Dr. Bryce will baptize his namesake, Robert Peter Bryce, son of Rev. A. E. and Mrs. Larke.

Don't forget the date, and the time, February 14th at 11 a.m.

Dr. Bryce has come to the high place of Moderator of The United Church of Canada after many years of faithful and effective service. He owns Blantyre, Scotland, as his birthplace, and we may think of him as adding another touch of honor and distinction to that home of David Livingstone. Coming to this continent in 1903, he spent a few years in missionary work in Newfoundland before entering Victoria College, Toronto, to study for the Methodist ministry.

While still a student, Dr. Bryce took upon himself the pastorate of an industrial suburb in the northern part of Toronto, where he exercised a ministry of unusual scope and effectiveness. In a rapidly-growing neighborhood he helped in the building of seven churches, organized many Sunday schools and brought the church into vital relationship with thousands of lives that would not have been touched save through his peculiar type of ministry. The work done there, which included the founding of the Earls Court Children's Home, abides as a tribute to his devotion and earnestness and his rare gift for human sympathy and understanding.

On the formation of the Federation for Community Service, Dr. Bryce was made its first president, and in various ways, through his interest in Mothers' Pensions and other efforts for the welfare of the underprivileged, he has shown the deepest practical concern for the common human good. He is thought of as one of the leading students in his church of the social problems of the day, and has written largely about them.

The herculean service that Dr. Bryce has rendered the church, however, has been in connection with his work, since 1925, as secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund. His great gifts as an organizer, his sense of fellowship with his brethren, and his ability to win the confidence of the people have made his work in this most difficult field one of the outstanding features of the church's life through all the years since union. He has the co-operation and the loyalty of the entire church in the hard and perplexing years that are ahead.

LABRADOR TO GET REINDEER HERDS

According to the Daily News, of St. John's, Newfoundland, Mr. Frederic S. Lawrence, formerly of Peace River, Alberta, and presently of New York, has been granted by the Commission of Government the right to select a million acres of grazing land on the Northern Labrador for a great reindeer preserve.

As soon as the Government completes arrangements for granting the rights, he will be ready to start operations.

"About the silliest yet." This was the opinion expressed by a well-known local gentleman who happened to hear from the radio on Sunday last Premier Aberhart's "Professors Anonymous."

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO FIGHT COMMUNISM

The Calgary Knights of Columbus, in common with jurisdictions of the order in other parts of Canada and the United States, will take part in a campaign against the spread of Communism throughout the continent.

Ray Cannon, grand knight of the Calgary jurisdiction, said he had received little information about the proposed campaign, but understood it would be principally educational, to educate the public generally as to the dangers of Communism and other subversive doctrines.

Inauguration of the campaign on an international basis was announced from New York. This dispatch stated the plan for the campaign had been approved by the supreme board of directors.

Martin Carmody, supreme knight of Grand Rapids, Mich., told the gathering the Communist party was operating now under the guise of a "defender of democracy" and is appealing for what is described as a "united front." Outlining the projected campaign, Mr. Carmody said:

"It is our intention in our crusade to bring home to our 500,000 members, and to all who attend the open meetings which we have arranged, the true nature of this Communist strategy. We are not interested in creating or developing a 'Red' scare, but are merely following a course which we conceive to be our patriotic duty."

More than 350 meetings in the various jurisdictions of the order in Canada and the United States have been arranged.

The Weekly Newspapers Association of Ontario has met the legislature to urge that after each session a digest of legislation be presented in the form of government advertising for publication in weeklies.

Aberhart in his broadcast on Sunday last had but a few minutes in which to refer to insurance companies, the press and the preachers—neither of which were thinking seriously of his nonsense at that time. Sunday, according to the Scriptures he has so much studied, requires that it be used to a much nobler purpose.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Retail Merchants' Association, London, Ont., has opened a drive toward making Boxing Day (Dec. 26) a legal holiday throughout Canada.

Russia has set up a $4,000,000,000 war budget, boosting her defence estimates for 1937 more than $1,000,000,000 over last year's.

Twenty-one cities out of 27 which held civic nominations in British Columbia recently, elected their mayors by acclamation.

What was described as the first metropolitan daily newspaper published exclusively for children appeared from the presses of Nichi Nichi, one of Tokyo's great journals.

The New York-Paris air race originally scheduled to start May 21 in commemoration of the first transatlantic flight by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, has been postponed until August.

Nine spiders were ingeniously mounted between sheets of glass and made visible by white powder and a black background, form an interesting exhibit at the Natural History Museum, South Kensington, London.

Silicosis in the last 10 years has cost the Ontario workmen's compensation board $260,000,000 and this year will likely cost $60,000,000, Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Ontario health minister, told a labor delegation.

Professor Pelham Edgar, president, told the annual general meeting of the Association of Canadian Bookmen that membership had grown to 2,300. A year ago there were only two members, he said.

Sunken Treasure

Searching For Gold In Vessel Wrecked In 1780

In quest of millions in sunken gold, Simon Lake, 70-year-old submarine inventor, trickled half a dozen rusty coils through his fingers and brooded wryly on the "profits" of treasure-hunting.

"Nickels," he murmured, "nickels, and dimes and junk!" That's all he has to show, so far, on his three-year search for the wreck of the British frigate Husar, lying 12 fathoms deep in the swirling currents of New York's East river, where the ship sank in 1780.

In cold cash, Lake has retrieved $3.57—disregarded by auction, puppets delving in the muddy river bed for the hulk of the treasure ship. Lake is mystified about the coins. They're not old English coins from the Husar's treasure trove. They're just fairly modern American specie—the oldest being a 50-cent piece, dated 1914.

"The river bottom must be thick with them," he said, pointing out that the suction pump has operated only around a small sector.

Under the heading of junk, Lake displayed a segment of false teeth, a cheap watch, a pair of brass knuckles, a stickpin and a pearl-handled jack-knife of dubious pearl.

For more than half a century Lake watched a dozen more expeditions try to locate the Husar's golden cache.

"I'm pretty sure I've located the wreck," he said, "but it is buried under mud and tar and it may be weeks before we strike the bulk itself."

The Husar, a full-rigged 28-gun frigate, was wrecked while fleeing with money for the redcoat army after the American revolutionary forces had driven British troops out of New York city.

A Valuable Painting

Reported To Be Worth $100,000, Will Be Returned To Vancouver From New York

An oil-painting by Bartolomeo Esteban Murillo, once available to Vancouver city museum for $2,000 and now reported to be worth $100,000, will be brought back to Vancouver from New York.

But the painting which hung for more than eight years in an obscure corner of the museum will not be loaned again to the city, Hugh Maxwell, its Vancouver owner, said. Instead, it will be placed in a bank vault for safekeeping.

First announcement that the picture was once available to the museum was made by T. P. O. Menzies, curator of the museum, who said he had strongly urged the board of directors to buy it, but the board did not buy. "Nobody in Vancouver would believe it was really a Murillo," Menzies said.

In Turkey, the lower classes invest their savings in copper utensils, their standing in the community being measured by the number of such utensils they possess.

So many are willing to try anything to make a living except work.

U.S. National Defence

Plan To Begin Construction Of Two New Battleships

A record peacetime national defence fund of nearly $1,000,000,000, including money to begin construction of two new battleships, was asked by President Roosevelt for the 1938 fiscal year.

Increased expenditures for air, planes, ordnance equipment and expanded personnel for both the United States army and navy also were proposed.

The president recommended in his annual budget message to congress a total appropriation of $860,763,000 for the naval and military establishments, an increase of $92,880,000 over estimated outlay for the current fiscal period ending June 30.

The 1937 national defence estimate, aggregating $857,883,000, constituted the previous peacetime high. Actual appropriations for that period, however, amounted to $916,347,391.

To start work on the two battleships, the keels of which he ordered laid only a short time before transmitting increased to $857,302,600 the original navy department estimate for 1938 of $563,996,350.

The budget, besides providing sums necessary for carrying out the navy's regular building programme designed to expand the fleet to full allotted strength by 1942, proposed an outlay of $49,500,000 for the bureau of aeronautics, a $10,000,000 increase over 1938.

Of this sum $28,000,000 would be used to purchase about 400 new airplanes, compared with $27,000,000 authorized for that purpose this year.

The president proposed that navy marine pay be boosted from $201,216,452 for 1937 to $214,687,000, to care for additional recruits required by the commissioning of new ships, and that total army pay be raised from $154,323,560 to $162,349,100, to cover similar authorized enlargement of enlisted strength.

Silk For Coronation Robes

Will Be Largest Amount England Has Produced For 300 Years

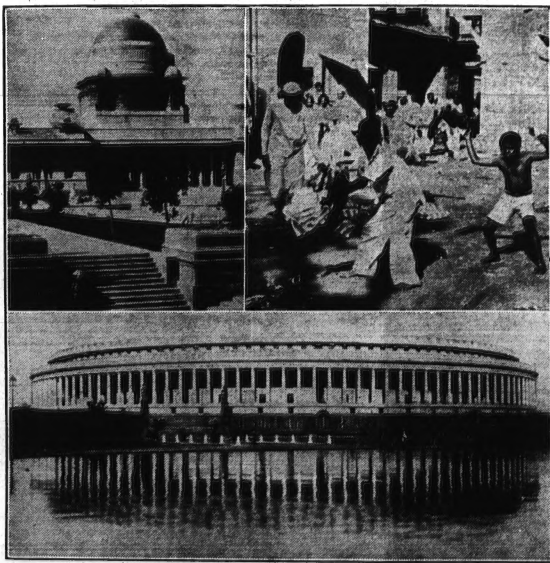

Intended for the coronation robes of King George and other members of the royal family, 600,000 miles of silk thread is being reeled off from cocoons behind the old walls of Lullingstone Castle at Eynsford.

This is the first large amount to be produced in England since the days of King Charles II, nearly 300 years ago. It is the result of the latest hatch on the Lullingstone silk farm, with its 50,000 mulberry trees to feed silkworms, which is operated by Lady Hart Dyke.

The silk producer there is considered too valuable to be used in the making of the most expensive silk stockings. Queen Mary recently inspected the farm and expressed keen interest in the preparation for the coronation robes.

The Bank of England began active operation on January 1, 1885.

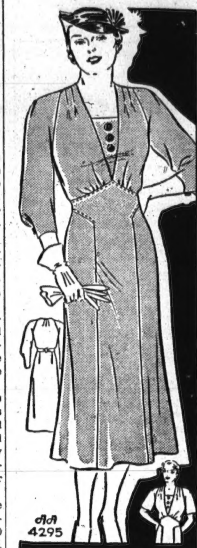

INDIA PREPARES FOR COMMENCEMENT OF NEW SELF-GOVERNING STATUS

The new Indian constitution which has taken eight years for the British Government to prepare will take effect on April 1, but not with the consent of all the Indian people. Gandhi and some of his followers are still demanding complete independence from Great Britain, and their political opinions range from progressive conservatism through passive resistance to communism. Long conferences are being held at the Capital in New Delhi between Lord Linlithgow and his advisers with a view to obtaining support from other Indian leaders of the moderate National Liberal Federation. At the top, left, is the dome of the Viceroy's Palace; below, is a picture of the House of Representatives; while at the top, right, are youthful Indians looking shops in Bombay during one of the religious riots which Britain has been more or less successful in keeping in check.

SLIMMING FROCK WINS ADMIRATION WHEREVER YOU WEAR IT!

By Anne Adams

"Charming" is just the word for this lovely, slender-line frock! For whoever wears Pattern 4295, will appear slim, young, and pretty in its graceful flattery! What could equal the appeal of the deep V, filled in by a trim vest that's laced by three gay buttons! Then, too, you're fascinating choice of three different length sleeves! Anne Adams needn't tell you that the clever up-raising skirt-yoke, cut in one with the neat panel, is the latest thing in the fashion world, and this feature makes you look inches taller! Wherever you wear this frock, you're sure to be the centre of admiring glances, and no one will ever guess how easily you made it. Choose monotonous crepe, synthetic silk and heavy georgette.

Pattern 4295 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 3/4 yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coin or stamps (coin preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number, and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

Air Rifles Are Dangerous

Menace To Public Safety And Should Not Be Sold

A young man may lose the sight of an eye as the result of a boy's carelessness with an air rifle. Two lads in possession of air rifles in the neighborhood have been summoned to Police Court. But this is a case of locking the stable door after the horse is stolen. It will profit the victim nothing even though a conviction should be registered and the boy punished for his offense.

At the very same time that this incident took place, a resident in the east end had his bedroom window perforated in two places from the same cause.

Air rifles are a menace and their sale should be prohibited by law. It is contrary to law to sell dynamite to children because it is a highly dangerous explosive. The air rifle is not so likely to cause serious injury to the owner but is even more likely to cause damage to other people.—Toronto Telegram.

Attracted Much Attention

North Carolina Village Advertised For Two Used Jail Cells

Calypto, a North Carolina hamlet, broke into the news recently by advertising in outside papers for "two used jail cells." At latest report nobody with "used jail cells" had answered the ad, but it attracted a lot of attention from curious folk who wanted to know why Calypso wanted "used jail cells." Until last summer, a Calypso correspondent explains, the town got by without a jail, sending its occasional offenders to the lock-up of a neighboring village. Then, it appears, some Calypso booster talked the community into seeking W.F.A. aid for public improvement. The improvement? To form of a brick building to be used as a jail and for other municipal services. When completed, it was found that no provision had been made for the "jail cells." Hence the advertisement for "used cells."

Serial Has No End

Has Been Running In Japanese Newspaper For 26 Years

In one Japanese newspaper they run a serial story that is a veritable Thousand and One Nights' Romance. Already it has passed its 7,300th instalment, and this story without apparent end is expected to last for many more months, although it has been running continuously for over twenty years.

Its author has been dead these many years, but that didn't damp the newspaper's enthusiasm for its lengthy tale—they called in the author's son, and each week the story continues as before. Fortunately this author also has a son!

The Stockton and Barlington railway, in England, was the first public railway in the world. It opened Sept. 27, 1825.

Explanations And Comments

The Cure at the Pool of Bethesda, John 5:1-14. In Jerusalem by the sheep gate (the gate mentioned in Neh. 3:1; 12:39) there was a pool where the sheep destined for sacrifice were washed. Around the pool porches had been built for the protection of those who came there to bathe. There were small compartments, covered overhead, and open toward the pool. This pool was called in Hebrew Bethesda, which means "House of Mercies." There the sick, the lame, the withered, collected, hoping to be cured, and among them was a man who had been afflicted for 38 years. He had been lying on the porch. Jesus saw him and said, "Wouldest thou be made well?" The man had been helpless so long that he had lost where the sheep destined for sacrifice were washed. Thou Shalt Not Love

—A NOVEL BY—
GEORGIA GRAIG

She knew Sapphira must have more powders in the extra luggage the colored woman had brought along. Feverishly she hunted for them, toasting lovely lingerie, expensive vials, boxes, every which way, here and there. At last she found the box she recognized. It was filled with little packages. She moved across the floor with them to the table on which the glass of water was all ready for her. With shaking fingers she began opening the little packages, one after the other, counting—one, two, three, four. . . . She emptied them all into the glass. A strange excitement possessed her. She must hurry, hurry, hurry, before someone came to stop her!

The liquid foamed right to the top of the glass, a life-giving looking sort of liquid which was a liar—which meant death in its foolish imitation of life's effervescence. Starr picked up the glass.

With a gesture of bravado, she held it up in a toast, in just the same way that "Play-Girl" had tilted her champagne glass to meet the laughing, admiring face of some man.

Starr Ellison's toast, the toast she thought would be her last, was to the pale, wild-eyed woman who faced her in the mirror.

But even as the glass touched her lips, her plan was rudely frustrated. There was a sudden noise behind her. A man's hand stretched out and knocked the glass from her fingers. The white liquid, not through its effervescence, foamed against the beige rug of one of Stephanie Dale's guest rooms.

Too late! Her fear had not been imaginary. . . . Again fate was laughing at her. Her hurry had not been sufficient. . . .

The blurred figure beside hers in the mirror took definite shape. Starr choked out a sharp cry, swinging around.

"Michael!"

To Alkalize Acid Indigestion Away Fast

People Everywhere Are Adopting This Remarkable "Phillips" Way

The way to gain almost incredibly quick relief from stomach condition arising from overeating is to alkalinize the stomach quickly with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Try this Phillips' Way to get rid of any acid stomach upsets. Get either the liquid "Phillips" or the remarkable, new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Only 25¢ for a big box of tablets at drug stores.

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA

He said sharply: "You won't need a sedative tonight!"

He did not understand, of course, just what he had interrupted. He had never understood Starr from the beginning. He never would.

He looked very big and masterful, and altogether too much of any woman's ideal of a man as he stood there, not far behind Starr, framed in the open doorway to the terrace. His gray eyes were glowing with a strange fire that was not of this modern generation at all, but to Starr quickly recognizable as the fire that might have glowed in the eyes of any strange sheik of Arab, Modern, yes—tremendously, vitally so. But—

His hard young mouth curved recklessly. The sleek line of his wavy hair which he always swept to the right had broken into little ruffled waves, wet and unruly.

Starr did not know how she found her voice. It was a strange, muffled voice that asked:

"What are you doing here, Michael? What do you want?"

He gave a short laugh. "What should I want to a lovely, dangerous woman's boudoir at midnight. . . . The answer ought to be obvious."

Daggers of ice pricked Starr's spine. Here was a situation which was entirely foreign to her. One with which she did not know how to cope, for the simple reason that it was completely out of the scheme of all her experiences. She met it upstanding.

"We haven't anything to say to each other, Michael-Hassan," she said coolly, deliberately using the nickname which would presuppose her lack of interest.

His lip curled. "Haven't we, Starr?"

He was moving closer. He was overwhelmingly close, boring her through with those relentless gray eyes of his. He said, as smoothly as though they were discussing the next day's program:

"On the contrary, my dear, I think we have a lot to say to each other. We've been fooling ourselves, you and I, playing a game of bluff. But I've seen through it. And you ought to know you can't trifle with emotions which are stronger than men. You didn't really think that things could end like this, did you?"

The grim determination of his face added deep significance to his words. Starr took a shrinking backward step away from him. Her thin, frail hand was held against her lips in terror. She breathed:

"Michael, have you gone crazy?"

That strange laugh echoed again. Michael threw back his head to give freedom to it.

"Crazy? Yes! Sure I'm crazy. I'm crazy about you—mad as a June hatter. I hate you, and yet I can't keep away from you. Didn't you tell me you? You—you're a devil from the burning sands, a real enigma of the desert, if the truth were known, and you've bewitched me! You're anathema, but I love you! You're poison in my blood!"

Starr cried out wildly, keeping her voice as repressed as emotion would allow.

"Michael! You're insane! You mustn't say such things! Here in Stephanie Dale's home, and you're going to marry her!"

"I'm not going to marry Stephanie Dale," Michael contradicted grimly. "I hope I'm not that stripe of cad. It wouldn't be fair to her, with your shadow between her and me—which I would be, always! I'll always be branded as the sort of cad they do know about as everybody who knows me of course. I'm expecting that. I'm prepared for it. It doesn't matter in the slightest. . . . Nothing matters, except that I want you!"

Step by step he came forward. Straight into the tortured pools of her long black eyes he looked, her mysterious eyes. This time he was too blinded by his own passion to see the reflection of her suffering that was mirrored starkly. He flung at her:

"If you want to play, I'll play with you! You are going to marry me now, tonight! Oh, it'll all be the way you like it—all play! We'll jazz up the wedding march, burlesque the marriage vows—make a playground of marriage! We'll play—and how!"

Marriage! That one incredulous word stuck in Starr's throat.

Oh, this was all preposterous! It was all more like a nightmare dream than anything she had known since the day she shivered beside a dampness-oiling wall, and saw a three-thousand-year-old priestess shiver to dust, and heard: . . . She would not think of it!

Michael was joking, of course. He must have had more to drink than she had thought, and this was his idea of a swell aftermath to a party, and a getting even.

She was wrong. She saw that at the instant of seeing Michael's face plainly her eyes shined light. He meant what he said. He had never been more, dead in earnest. The destant set of his firm, lean jaw spoke of a hidden purpose.

Starr felt torn inside from the force of her own conflicting thoughts and emotions. There was the part of her that wanted Michael more than she wanted anything else in earth or heaven, even in spite of the cavernous way he would take her—perhaps because of it. She was not sure. On the other hand, there was the deep voice of conscience, warning her that she had not the right to marry any man, not even Michael. Oh, most particularly Michael! Her sacrifice to that ideal had already been placed on the altar.

And in the distance. . . . There was a throbbing like the beat of tom-toms in her veins, like the rhythm of the drums of stretched posthumous heard in the desert, never forgotten. . . . Primitive passions, fighting for freedom. Passions the most effective civilization could never down.

Starr waged her silent battle, the lights flickering before her like tantalizing pinpoints of beckoning temptation. Then—It was through frozen lips that she retorted:

"You're completely raving crazy, Michael Fairbourne! I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth. Why should I?"

"Of course I don't expect you to settle down and raise babies. I know better than that—now. Ours will be a play marriage, like all the rest of your playing, except that it will be real, as far as you're concerned. Our play-marriage will end tonight. Tomorrow I'm going away—I don't know where. It doesn't matter. The wedding ceremony will be a memory between us. . . . To me it will be a safeguard to insure me from ever making a fool of myself over a woman again."

Starr swayed and her breath seemed driven out of her body as her eyes close to shut out the pain. Everything else had been offered her—and now this! Play-girl bride for a night to satisfy a man's bitter desire for revenge! Was she to suffer this final humiliation before her fatal star burned out?

A desperate silence waited them in. He was waiting for her to speak. A desperate thought was milling around in her brain. Suppose somebody came—found them? Stephanie.

Somehow she must get Michael out of this room. Perhaps outside she could reason with him.

The seriousness that had tensed her words before changed to lightness. She glanced down at the fineness of her white silken nightgown and the gauntness of the childron negligee that veiled it. She smiled ruefully, and when she spoke, she seemed to give in.

"All right, Michael-Hassan," she said, with a rippling subdued laugh. "Have it your own way. You always do. Only give me a chance to slip into something in which I won't freeze to death. . . ." She gave him a playful shove. "Go on and get your car, and don't make too much noise about it!"

Says Climate Changing

Rivers of Western Canada In Danger Of Drying Up

If the Rocky Mountain glaciers continue melting, in the opinion of Dan McCowan, western Canada's rivers will have dwindled "almost to nothing" in the next 500 years. The glaciers which the Bank of Montreal described as the "reservoirs" of the prairies, are decreasing slowly, McCowan told the Montreal Women's Club.

"The climate is changing in the Rockies," he said. "The glaciers are losing more in the summer than they gain in the winter. If this continues, rivers like the Saskatchewan will have dwindled almost to nothing in 500 years."

"The only thing we can do," declared the noted naturalist "is to plant more trees to conserve the moisture."

Art Of Fan Making

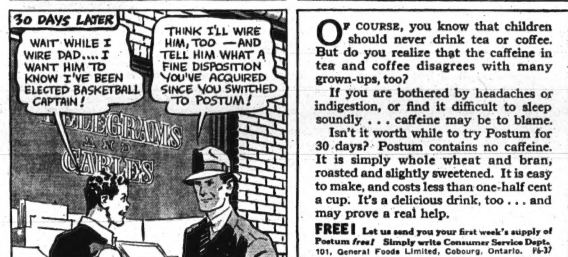

Was Known In China Many Thousands Years Ago

Fans made of peacocks' feathers were used in China in 3000 B.C., and there is one in the Cairo Museum 4,000 years old. The invention was brought from China to Europe by Portuguese traders in the seventeenth century, and Paris was long the centre of fan-making. In 1685 King Louis XIV., expelled all his Protestant subjects and some of them brought the art over to England. The Fanmakers' Company of London dates from 1709.

British Yacht Challenger

Sopwith To Bring Two Yachts To Contest America's Cup

Endeavour II, T. O. M. Sopwith's challenger for the America's Cup, will leave Gosport for New York early in May, the New York Times reports. She will be accompanied by Endeavour I, the old challenger, against whom she will race before the cup contest.

It is still possible that Endeavour I may represent Great Britain in the series, according to the Times. Sopwith is uncertain which of the two boats is superior. A combination of bad weather and racing mishaps to Endeavour II last summer prevented effective comparison. The rules of the competition require only that the challenging boat be announced not less than 30 days before the match.

Neither boat will race in England before leaving. Mr. Sopwith said he hoped the two boats would have six weeks of sailing on the sea before the cup series begins July 31.

The cost of sending out Endeavour I as a trial boat is being borne by a syndicate of British yachtsmen.

Smallest Steam Engine

Less Than Half An Inch High And Perfect In Every Detail

What is stated to be the smallest steam engine in the world is now in Capetown. It is less than half an inch high—about the size of a three-penny bit, and is perfect in every detail.

It is the work of J. M. Ewing, of Kenya, who planned to exhibit it at the Empire exhibition. The exhibition authorities, however, would not take the risk of putting it on view as they were afraid it would be pocketed.

Mr. Ewing stated that it is a three-cylinder double-acting piston valve reversing-germ steam model engine. It has a bore of three sixty-fourths of an inch and a stroke of one-sixteenth of an inch. There are about 200 parts in it.

Aerial Survey

Can Measure Height And Girth Of Trees By Photography

Canada has led the world in developments of aerial survey. H. E. Seely of Ottawa, in charge of the forestry survey branch, department of mines and resources, told the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers.

From the aerial photographs tree heights could be determined from the shadows they cast, he said. Tables had to be worked out for location, season and time. A table had also been worked out for diameter breast height.

He said the work would not be completely accurate as far as the individual tree was concerned, but it was only an accurate average which was desired. Ground surveys had tallied with the aerial averages worked out in the office. The height might be out as much as 10 feet in a single tree but the average was out less than a foot.

Cannot Be Abolished

Speed Limit Essential As Long As Drivers Are Selfish

Surely, it requires no argument to prove that risk increases proportionately to speed. With all the modern mechanical improvements and technical safeguards it is, after all, the human factor which counts most in ensuring safety. A car bounding along at 70 or 80 miles an hour is not under proper control and is a peril to itself and to other vehicles. Experts agree that to drive above 60 miles an hour is to invite disaster.

While something might be said for stepping up the speed limit to some extent, in view of recent developments in the automobile industry, to abolish it altogether would be to surrender to the demands of the reckless, the selfish and inconsiderate—Hamilton Spectator.

Little Helps For This Week

Being confident of this very thing, that He who hath begun a good work in you will perform it. Phil. 1:6.

Fill with inviolable peace: Stablish and keep my settled heart;

In These may all my wanderings cease.
From Thee may I no more depart.

Thy utmost goodness called to prove,
Loved with an everlasting love.

What is it that makes us unable to persevere? It is not want of strength, for we have within us the strength of the Holy Spirit. We have never set ourselves sincerely to any work according to the will of God and failed for want of strength. It was not that strength failed the will, but that the will failed first. We open only certain chambers of our will to the influence of the Divine, and yet if we would have peace we must be altogether united to God.

Jonker Diamond

Huge Stone Is Cut Into Dozen Small Jewels

What remains of the big Jonker diamond, 12 smaller but more beautiful stones, rested on a black velvet-covered board in a Fifth Avenue, New York, office.

Harry Winston's job of cutting up the great diamond was over. Behind him lay months of critical study and anxiety, and gone were 350 carats of diamond, vanished into air.

The Jonker diamond weighed 725 carats in the rough. The total weight of the dozen stones is 375 carats—the rest was lost in the cutting and polishing process.

PREMIER ABERHART'S
BROADSIDE ON PRIME MINISTER KING

Sunday has become the political comedy day of the week, and last Sunday was no exception: Premier Aberhart was about as amusing as Eddie Cantor or Jack (Buck) Benny, especially to the Liberals and a host of others, who think that the Mackenzie King Government at Ottawa are a real government.

It is to laugh to hear Mr. Aberhart, who practically said nothing, and got nothing at the recent Ottawa conference, raving about the Dominion Government not giving him money, and cutting down on relief. In the first place, Mr. Aberhart, with his weird ideas of financing, has got more money from Ottawa than he is entitled to, while they talk about a proposed cut in a relief grant with Social Credit. Have we not been told time and time again, that Alberta would not need money under Social Credit, and why borrow money from Ottawa to pay interest, when one does not believe in interest. This is all too much like preaching that the end of the world is coming, and selling one's property and chattels, because if the end of the world did come, the party of the first part would have no use for the money, and the party of the second part would have no use for the property and chattels. So why does Mr. Aberhart talk about a little thing like real money, or such an unnecessary thing as interest with Social Credit just around the corner.

But, it is all politics on Mr. Aberhart's part; and an effort to hold the restless mob, who actually believed in him as the Messiah who was going to give them a place in the sun, a life of workless ease. Then, when Mr. Aberhart quits and makes a miserable failure of his self appointed task, he will blame the Dominion Government for his failure.

But, Prime Minister King, Honorable Charles Dunning and the other members of the Dominion cabinet are not worrying—in fact, they must be laughing until the tears roll down their cheeks. Why man alive did they not say "Hands Off Alberta" and have them not given Mr. Aberhart plenty of rope for his Social Credit hanging. And did not Mr. Aberhart take plenty of rope?

But Bunty must pull the strings sometime, and there is an end to a rope. It is now time to pull the rope in and Mr. Aberhart should not whine because he is on the other end of the rope. Take it on the chin, Mr. Aberhart, because he who likes to hand it out like yourself should learn to take it.

However, seriously speaking, what claim has Alberta on any Ottawa government? It has been a continual grab for more and more on the part of Alberta, since 1921, and, without fail Alberta sends down a more or less solid opposition to a Dominion Government, whether it be Liberal or Conservative. What Dominion Government would look to Alberta for any kind of reasonable support of its policies. Why, Alberta is like the prodigal son of a rich father, who, regardless of what generosity his dad has shown, always wants more and more, and his dad is simply the mean old man to him.

Ottawa has listened to the Alberta howl so long, that the other parts of Canada are getting fed up on the jarring Alberta noose. Mackenzie King is Prime Minister of Canada, which runs from Atlantic to Pacific, and if Mr. Aberhart is peeved, it is just too bad. But Alberta is the last Province in the Dominion to try and direct the policies of the Dominion Government. Just think, one lone Liberal member from Alberta, out of Mackenzie King's huge following.

No doubt Mackenzie King, while Mr. Aberhart was burning up the air waves Sunday, was attending the Presbyterian church in Ottawa, or was up in his library with his great friend and admirer, his faithful dog. It is certain he was conducting himself a respectful, law abiding gentleman on the Sabbath Day, and remaining true to the teachings of his Scotch Presbyterian church—up. He certainly would not be stirring up friction on the day, which all have been taught in the words "Remember the Sabbath Day and keep it Holy."

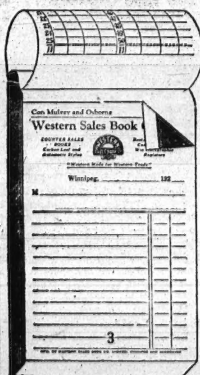

The way of the transgressor is still hard, and Mr. Aberhart has broken so many rules that he should be the last to attack real men who play the game.

However, cheer up Mr. Aberhart, when you get through messing about, Canada's Prime Minister will step in, and straighten things out. Meanwhile, Mr. King's shoulders are quite broad, his heart is in the right place, and he is too busy working for Canada to even worry about any broadside from the windy Province of Alberta.—Drumheller Review.

Blairmore meets Bellevue in a hockey fixture at the arena tonight, in a switched home game, while on Monday night Lethbridge will appear here against the locals. As yet Blairmore has failed to beat Lethbridge so far this season, and will put up a good argument on Monday to gain a victory.

At a meeting of the local branch of the United Mine Workers of America on Sunday last, the following slate was proposed for the forthcoming municipal and school elections: For mayor, Enoch Williams; for council, Albert J. Olson, E. Morgan and Romano Peressini; and for school trustees, A. Bossetti, Martin Krkosky and Alex. Rae. Olson and Bossetti for re-election. Mayor Knight informed the meeting that he would contest the mayoralty as an independent candidate. There is a possibility of a citizens' slate.

The Lethbridge Maple Leafs journeyed to Coleman by special train on Wednesday evening, accompanied by upwards of two hundred hockey fans, including Don Lewis and Dick Alexander. The Coleman arena was almost packed for the game, a large number having come in from Blairmore, Hillcrest and Bellevue to help swell the crowd. The game was keenly contested, Coleman appearing practically impregnable during the first two periods. Lethbridge gathered pep in the final stanza, however, and the score at the finish stood 4-2 for the Coleman Canadians. The hockey train, with MacGregor in charge, left on the return trip at 11 p.m.

Make Your Own Exposure Guide

Pictures like this usually need an exposure different from that required for a landscape. It's better to know than to guess.

THE trouble with a good many amateurs is that they never get beyond the stage of happy-go-lucky shutter clicking. They keep on making haphazard guesses at exposures notwithstanding the indistinct pictures that too often result. They would be surprised at what they could accomplish as a regular thing if they really knew just what stop and shutter speed are needed with the type of camera they use for the existing light conditions each time they take a picture.

To be sure, exposure is a bit of a bugaboo even to the most experienced, which is why so many "advanced amateurs" use exposure masters. But, if you are still a guesser, nothing prevents you from learning to be a good one. Here is a suggestion to help you lick the problem.

Take the time some day soon to make an experiment with different stops and shutter speeds on the same subject. Have a pad of paper with you on which you have written the date, time of day and light conditions and the type of film. Then for every shot you make, put down the exposure data. Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, etc. Make two series of experiments like this, first with a group of persons, then with a landscape.

For the first experiment, why not get the cooperation of your family? Get them out on the lawn some afternoon and start shooting. Suppose it is not less than an hour before sunset and the sky is bright. You are using a folding camera, with anastigmat lens, shutter speeds from 1/10 second to 1/100, and stops from f.6.3 to f.32. You have the family in the shade of a tree on a bright sunny day. An exposure of 1/25 second at f.8 seems right. Make that exposure No. 1 and carefully put down the data. Then make three other snapshots at f.8, No. 2 at 1/10, No. 3 at 1/50 and No. 4 at 1/100. Then make four more at f.6.3 and four more at f.11 at the same shutter speeds. This assortment has provided you with overexposures and underexposures of the same subject but surely several correctly exposed negatives at different stop openings under the same conditions.

Now get your photo finisher to make you the best possible prints of each negative. Then ask him to print all the negatives, in groups of four, on one sheet of paper, using the grade that will give the best print for the best negative of all. Result: you have learned something! And you will have a record to refer to of what different exposures will do to a picture and among them a correct one to emulate.

Do the same thing for a landscape picture, say at f.16, f.22 and f.32. Right! The records will not serve precisely for other light conditions, but they will help you immensely to make the necessary adjustments. You will see for one thing that underexposure is a much more hopeless failing than overexposure; hence, in the future, you will tend to be more liberal in your estimates.

JOHN VAN GUILDER

HERE'S A RECORD

Anyone of us would be proud to have an obituary that rings with as much truth and sincerity as that written for a Canadian sheep-dog:

A gentleman has just passed on. He was kind and courteous, respectful to his superiors and indulgent to his inferiors.

He had courage without bluster, and pride without vaunting.

He was a loyal friend and a devoted companion.

He never picked a quarrel, nor fled from a fight.

He loved children and delighted in their enjoyment.

He was generous and never critical.

He was full of the joy of living. His name was "Harley," and he was a sheep dog, eleven years old.

He lived happily, died serenely and left a volume of satisfying memories.

Here is something worth noting at this time: Recently the idea originated with the government to issue stickers to represent a license paid by autoists covering the first quarter of the year 1937. As far as can be learned, the government carried no paid announcement of the fact for the public's benefit in any paper in the province; but, instead, papers were asked to give the announcement space as a matter of news. At least ninety per cent of the papers acceded to the request for the public's benefit, and at a time when the premier was availing of every opportunity to lambast the press. Consistent, isn't it? As a matter of fact, in spite of all Mr. Aberhart can do to injure the press, the press has done more for the province of Alberta than he ever dreamt of doing, and for a financial reward representing practically nothing.

Speaking of blessings, suppose modern short skirts had come in style when bustles were all the rage.

A man who is all wrapped up in his own self-importance is apt to be mighty thinly clad.

A Lincoln girl broke herself of the habit of eating too much by marrying a cut-price printer.

Lots of people are so busy talking that they don't have time to say anything.

J. V. McDougall is leaving tomorrow afternoon for Calgary, where he will attend a hockey convention on Sunday. Anyone interested in this sport and wishing to gain information, on different points regarding it, please get in touch with Mr. McDougall before tomorrow afternoon.

DID YOU know that during the year 1936 one million seven hundred and fourteen thousand (1,714,000) bushels of malting barley were purchased from the farmers of Alberta for brewing purposes and all this at an average premium of thirty-five point eight eight cents (35.88 cents) per bushel over the regular price for 3 C.W. SOCIAL CREDIT PRINCIPLES

The eleven proposed principles of Social Credit are:

1. The issue of Alberta debt-free money which would be negotiable within the province.
2. Establishment of a central credit house in Edmonton with branches throughout the province, to function in some respects like an ordinary chartered bank.
3. A retail price-discount system. Retailers would deduct the discount from their prices and be reimbursed by the government for that amount, the government paying Alberta money.
4. Operation of a government propaganda bureau.
5. Extension of legislation adjusting public and private debts.
6. Reduction of taxation by the issue of interest-free money to take its place.
7. A provincial wholesale set-up to be formed to handle the import and export trade of Alberta. In brief, this bureau would buy wheat, for instance, from Alberta farmers, paying Alberta money for it. The wheat then would be sold outside the province for Canadian currency which could be used in future trading.
8. Interest-free loans for inside the province, either in Alberta money or the surplus of Canadian Currency piling up in the treasury.
9. Monthly dividends of $5 to every citizen of Alberta who has registered. Dividends would be paid in Alberta money only.
10. Alberta money would be made acceptable by law, forcing men and women to accept it for debts on penalty of debts being liquidated to the amount offered.
11. Preservation of the natural resources of Alberta by setting aside an area which could be developed only through a Social Credit financial system and not by outside capital.

The three main principles—Price, discount, circulating, debt-free money and dividends—are the primary theories of Major Douglas, the Scottish engineer, who is the father of modern Social Credit.

All but one of the inmates escaping from a reformatory at Guelph after the building had been fired have been returned to the institution.

What Is A

REGULAR customers of the EATON Catalogues have become used to seeing the circle shown above, here and there throughout the pages of every Catalogue they receive. They have learned that wherever this sign appears they can safely expect extra value.

Sometimes a Star Special is the result of particularly fortunate buying; sometimes it is specially purchased; sometimes it is an item which we have given a particularly favorable pricing. But always, it stands for the very utmost in value—a shopping opportunity which is exceptional even at EATON'S, where we pride ourselves that ALL our values are unusual.

So when you see the Star Special sign on any article in our Catalogue, examine it very closely. For this is the very hall-mark of value.

Paying himself a dividend: A local district mechanic was asked what he intended doing about the fee remitted to the Alberta government for code protection. "Well," he replied, "I don't want it back. May be Mr. Aberhart needs it to help pay me a dividend." That's fine, isn't it. 'Twould be just as reasonable to expect Mr. Aberhart's salary to be paid from his own pocket.

Rebekah Lodge were invited to attend, which they did. Several tables of whist were played, prizes going to Stanley Goodwin, ladies' first; J. Dudley, gent's first. A tasty supper was served, after which Bro. James Cousens presented Bro. D. Morris with a 25-year jewel, for which Bro. Morris thanked the members. Bro. Cousens also had the pleasure of presenting Bro. Atkie, formerly of Fernie, now of Hillcrest, with a past grand jewel. A very pleasant evening was brought to a close with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

The "Big Interests"
In Life InsuranceAre the Policyholders and Beneficiaries

IN Life Insurance, the "Big Interests" are the millions of Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries—men, women and children who share in the protection made possible by individual thrift and foresight.

The concern of those who act on behalf of these policyholders and beneficiaries is to safeguard their interests. Their accumulated savings, amounting to more than two billion dollars, must be invested wisely to obtain the greatest yield consistent with safety. Every promise made in Life Insurance policies must be fulfilled completely and promptly.

Canadian policyholders may feel justly proud of the wise and careful administration of their trust funds. Even in the darkest days of the depression, their companies met every obligation promptly and fully—bringing financial security to thousands of Canadian homes.

There is added satisfaction in the fact that the investment of Life Insurance funds has helped to build Canadian homes, schools and hospitals—and develop agriculture, industries and public utilities. Thus, the whole Dominion benefits from Life Insurance.

In the future, as in the past, Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries must always be the "Big Interests" of Life Insurance.

PARLIAMENT IS OPENED BY SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

Ottawa.—Revision of the capital structure of the Canadian National Railways and ratification of a new trade agreement with the United Kingdom are two of the important measures parliament will be asked to deal with during the present session, according to the speech from the throne.

Reading the speech in the crowded, red-carpeted senate chamber, the governor-general, Lord Tweedsmuir, set the second session of the 18th parliament of Canada in being.

Text of Speech
Honorable members of the senate: Members of the House of Commons:

It affords me much pleasure to meet you at the commencement of another session of parliament.

The people of Canada, in common with the peoples of other parts of the British commonwealth of nations, learned with deep concern of the accession of His Majesty King Edward the Eighth to renounce the throne for himself and his descendants. In accordance with the Statute of Westminster, steps were immediately taken to set forth the request and consent of Canada to the enactment of legislation by the parliament at Westminster for the purpose of giving effect to His Majesty's instrument of abdication and promulgation of the succession to the throne. In accordance with the same statute, the assent of the parliament of Canada will be sought to the alteration in the law touching the succession.

You will be invited to adopt a resolution expressive of the loyalty of the members of both houses of parliament to His Majesty King George the Sixth.

His Majesty has been graciously pleased to set the twelfth of May as the date for his coronation. Provision will be recommended for the appropriate representation of Canada at the coronation ceremonies.

An imperial conference will be held in London, beginning in May of this year, for the consideration of questions of interest to the various members of the British commonwealth.

The international situation continues to give much ground for anxiety. The September assembly of the League of Nations gave earnest consideration to the bearing of recent developments upon the activities of the league, and a committee was appointed, in which Canada is represented, to consider the question of the application of the principles of the covenant.

Happily, international relations on this continent, and conditions in those of many other countries.

The visit of the president of the United States to Canada in July last was a much-appreciated expression of international friendliness and goodwill.

The year just closed has witnessed a steady improvement in conditions throughout Canada, and has borne testimony to the beneficial results of the fiscal policies of the administration, and of other methods employed to achieve national recovery. A very definite restoration of confidence is in itself an augury of the continuance of recovery.

A marked increase in trade and commerce has been accomplished by a noticeable improvement in the general economic position. Outstanding features of this improvement have been an expansion of markets, a revival of industry, an increase in employment, ascending government revenues, and upward trends in wages and prices. In the primary industries improvement has been especially noteworthy.

There has been a pronounced increase in the volume of farm products exported. It is the intention of the government to continue a vigorous promotion of the sale of agricultural products at home and abroad.

The government's efforts to expand Canada's trade have been unremitting. Since the last session of parliament ministers of the crown have visited Great Britain and other countries, to participate personally in the negotiation of trade agreements. At the present time, the minister of trade and commerce is on the way to Australia and New Zealand to discuss the revision of existing arrangements.

You will be pleased to learn that an agreement in principle has been reached between His Majesty's governments in the United Kingdom and Canada with respect to a new trade agreement. The agreement itself will be submitted for your approval during the present session.

German-Franco Treaty

Negotiations Are Under Way. For Trade Treaty Between the Two Countries

Berlin.—A government communiqué officially announced negotiations were under way for a trade treaty between Germany and France.

The announcement, first official confirmation of a rapprochement move between the two countries whose relations had been strained over the Spanish civil war, also stated Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, minister of economic affairs, had cancelled his scheduled trip to Paris.

Dr. Schacht, who was to open the German building at the Paris exposition, notified the German commissioner for the exposition his duties in Berlin were too heavy to allow him to be absent.

The communiqué added: "German-French negotiations for a trade treaty for the present will be conducted by departmental experts."

tion of the national employment commission, progress has been made in coping with unemployment and relief. Relief camps were closed on July 1. A registration of unemployed persons on relief has been completed. Dominion-provincial agreements have been entered into respecting a farm employment plan, under the terms of which work has been provided for thousands of single homeless men. A home improvement plan has been put into operation. Despite these measures, however, and the substantial increase of employment, the provision for large numbers still on relief remains a foremost problem.

Measures will be taken, in co-operation with the provinces, to assist in the establishment of unemployed young people.

A comprehensive program to meet the serious conditions created by widespread and intense drought in western Canada was adopted during the summer months.

The amalgamation and consolidation of certain branches of the public service, for which provision was made at the last session, have been effected. The board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways have been appointed and have entered upon their duties. Through the purchase of stock and the appointment of directors, authorized by parliament, the government has assumed a predominant interest in the ownership, and an effective control of the Bank of Canada.

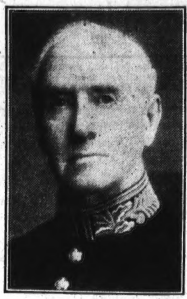

Measures will be introduced to provide for the establishment of a transatlantic air service; to extend the authority of the board of railway commissioners, and to revise the capital structure of the Canadian National Railways.

Among other proposed legislative enactments to which your attention will be invited, will be bills to facilitate the making of loans for the repair and improvement of rural and urban homes; to amend and consolidate the acts which relate to companies in trade and industry, and to provide for pensions to the blind at a lower age than 70 years. A measure will also be submitted with respect to the discharge, in any coin or currency which is legal tender, of debt payments at present required to be made in gold or gold coin.

Members of the House of Commons: The public accounts of the last fiscal year and the estimate for the coming year will be submitted for your consideration.

Honorable members of the senate: Members of the house of commons: In again inviting your careful consideration of the important matters which will engage your attention, I pray that divine providence may guide and bless your deliberations.

BRITISH VESSEL IS FREED BY ARRIVAL OF DESTROYER

London.—A British destroyer caused a Spanish insurgent trawler to the British steamship Bramhill in the Straits of Gibraltar, official sources disclosed.

The destroyer Sussex arrived under forced draft after the Bramhill, stopped by the armed trawler, wireless a request for assistance, officials said.

The insurgent vessel immediately sailed away and the Bramhill was allowed to go on toward Bilbao, on the northern Spanish coast, after the destroyer's officers found she had no arms shipments.

Officials cited the firm action of the Sussex's commander as an example of the government's determination not to permit interference with British vessels doing a lawful business and not carrying arms to Spain in violation of British law.

Government sources disclosed the administration was puzzled as to what action to take in connection with the reported seizure of British-owned copper mines in Spain by General Francisco Franco, insurgent commander-in-chief.

The reports said the Rio Tinto and the Tharsis Copper companies had been compelled to sell their copper to Germany at 42 pence to the pound sterling. The current rate, fixed at Gibraltar, is 80 to 90 pence to the pound.

A French firm was reported to be faced with similar instructions. General Franco's denial insurgent planes had bombed the British embassy building in Madrid was received skeptically in government circles, but usually informed persons said they believed no further action would be taken. Britain had protested the alleged bombings to General Franco's junta.

Wins Pilot's License
Rome.—Premier Mussolini won his military pilot's license after rising nearly 15,000 feet at the controls of his own trimotor plane and looping the loop like a veteran stunt flyer.

Il Duce, who is 53, smilingly received his pilot's insignia from General Giuseppe Valle, air ministry under-secretary.

The Union of South Africa is beginning a $25,000,000 road reconstruction program.

Goering Goes To Rome

Seeks Views Of Premier Mussolini On Reich Colonial Ambitions

Berlin.—Premier Mussolini's views on armaments and aid to German colonial ambitions took Air Minister Hermann Goering to Rome, it was disclosed.

The Reich, it was emphasized, wanted to know just how far Mussolini would go along if Chancellor Hitler forced the colonial issue to a decision in economic parleys with France.

The question of military strength and armaments, authoritative sources said, would be a continuation of discussion begun during the visit here last year by General Giuseppe Valle, Italian undersecretary for war.

Obviously a "vacation," Goering's Rome visit would serve a "useful political purpose," these sources said. Foreign office communiqué announced negotiations already under way for a trade treaty between Germany and France. Any economic agreement, it was believed, here, would include also political commitments by Hitler on armaments and peace in Europe. Many believed definite action also might be taken toward returning to Germany some of her possessions lost in the Great War, if Hitler pledged Germany to keep the peace.

Foreign Enlistment Act

Legality In Donations Is Problem For Legal Experts

London.—Legal experts are confronted with the problem of whether the Foreign Enlistment Act applies or does not apply to the Dominions. The weight of opinion inclines to the view that where a dominion has not passed contrary legislation the Foreign Enlistment Act does apply to all British subjects whether in the dominions or not. The effect of this will be that volunteers for Spain from any dominion (unless that dominion has passed contrary legislation) will be liable to the same penalty of two years' imprisonment as volunteers from the United Kingdom.

Under clause IV. of the Statute of Westminster no act of the parliament of the United Kingdom passed after the commencement of the Statute of Westminster extends to a dominion as part of the law of that dominion unless it is expressly declared in the British act that such dominion has requested and consented to enactment. Therefore the abridgement bill passed by the British parliament applied to Canada because the Canadian government both "requested and consented" to its enactment.

Change In Status

First British Ambassador To Egypt Presents Credentials

Cairo.—Sir Miles Lampson, first British ambassador to Egypt, presented his credentials to the regency council at Abdin palace, the Egyptian government both "requested and consented" to its enactment.

Elaborate pageantry marked the change in the status of the British representative. For two years previously Sir Miles was British high commissioner. Under the Anglo-Egyptian treaty ratifications of which were exchanged a few weeks ago, the British residency became an embassy.

Riding in a state coach, the new ambassador was greeted at the palace by a guard of honor and the playing of the British national anthem.

South Africa Needs Men
Cape Town.—Employment conditions in South Africa have never been healthier, the department of labor declared in an official report. The department said it could easily place 2,000 men if they were available.

Resolution On Order Paper

Conscription Of Wealth For War Purposes Will Be Discussed

Ottawa.—Conscription of wealth in the event of war is at least assured of discussion in the forthcoming session of the House of Commons. A resolution to that effect has been placed on the order paper by T. C. Douglas, young Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member for Weyburn, Saskatchewan. The resolution reads:

"In the opinion of this house the government of the day immediately bring down legislation to provide that in the event of a war in which Canada is actively participating, there shall be an automatic conscription of all wealth, industrial, financial, transportation, natural resources, for the duration of the war, and that a penalty shall be imposed for the violation thereof."

Body Is Returned

Body Of Belgian Attaché At Madrid Embassy Sent To Brussels

Toulon, France.—Body of Baron Jacques de Borghgrave, Belgian attaché at the Madrid embassy, was brought here aboard the French destroyer Kersaint.

Belgium had given the Valencia Social administration short notice to send the body out of Spain, charging the baron was killed during an uprising among foreign volunteer troops fighting for the government. The body will be taken to Brussels by special train.

SAYS TARIFFS ESTABLISHED BY CHEAP WHEAT

Winnipeg.—E. K. Williams, counsel for Manitoba Pool Elevators, Limited, contended before the Turgeon royal grain commission that fear of effects of cheap wheat on their economic system and not high prices was a factor in European importing countries establishing tariffs and quotas.

Mr. Williams disclosed the contention when examining A. E. Darby, secretary of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange who earlier had said importing countries feared a "combination of producers in exporting countries would result in an era of unduly high prices attained by artificial means."

High prices for wheat from exporting countries did not create a problem for importing countries, Mr. Williams contended. European countries, he suggested to Mr. Darby, established the tariffs, quotas, etc. to protect themselves from general financial conditions.

Mr. Darby said he could not agree. There was a market for Canadian grain but the buyers were not anxious to pay more for it than they found necessary. He quoted publications to show there existed a sentiment that Canadian wheat pools were acting to drive wheat prices up.

Mr. Williams quoted the 1933 international wheat agreement, which never became effective, to show that importing countries were ready to adopt policies fostering wheat consumption and to discourage any increase in wheat acreage. Improvement in the world price of wheat would have brought lowering of duties.

His reference to a "combination of producers in exporting countries," said Mr. Darby included the Canadian wheat pools. When Mr. Williams asked if there were any others that could be included, Mr. Darby said there were pool organizations in Australia.

The Winnipeg Grain Exchange had never considered its supervision necessary, Mr. Darby said. Its members had always considered the free and open market system best. Mr. Darby added when Mr. Williams asked if the grain exchange members opposed establishment of a wheat board in any form.

References were made to submissions of the grain exchange to the parliamentary committee investigating wheat last spring which led to appointment of Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon, of Regina, to make the present inquiry.

A. E. Hoskin, K.C., and Isaac Pitblado K.C., counsel for the exchange, pointed out the exchange regulated grain of wheat marketing conditions and some aid to producers might be advisable. They contended the sooner the return to free and open marketing methods the sooner difficulties would disappear. They pointed out grain exchange members had suggested a wheat board to dispose of government wheat holdings through the open market.

IRISH FREE STATE MAY END TRADE WAR WITH BRITAIN

London.—Possibility of a settlement of the "trade war" which has troubled commercial relations between Great Britain and the Irish Free State for the past five years was seen here after a lengthy conference between President Eamon de Valera and Dominions Secretary Malcolm Macdonald.

Macdonald left the Irish premier's hotel after conferring with him for more than three hours. It was understood an important statement would be issued following a second conference.

John W. Dunlavy, Irish Free State high commissioner in London; Dennis Devlin, of the Free State external affairs ministry; and Sean Brennan, De Valera's assistant, were present during the discussion.

Informed sources admitted a complete settlement of all outstanding Irish questions would prove extremely difficult. They said some decisive progress might be realized, however.

The Anglo-Irish trade war originated after election of De Valera's Fianna Fáil party in 1932, when the Irish president refused to continue the $25,000,000 land annuities paid to Great Britain by Irish farmers. His action was followed immediately by a retaliatory tariff war applied to Irish products by Great Britain, through which the $25,000,000 was expected to be realized. Then the Free State increased its tariff on British products and brought trade between the two countries to a virtual standstill.

First indication that either London or Dublin was willing to relax its stand was seen at the beginning of last year when an agreement was reached for the export of Irish cattle in exchange for British coal.

Since then President De Valera has shown increasing signs of desiring a reconciliation with Britain.

Wheat Carryover Solved

Expect Surplus Will Be Wiped Out By End Of New Year

Ottawa.—The government will meet the new session of parliament with one of the nation's problems, the wheat surplus, solved at least for the present. For several years the burden of great quantities of wheat stored in the Dominion ranked next to the problem of railway deficits and unemployment.

Figures now available show that wheat in store in Canada on Jan. 8 was 146,353,272 bushels less than on the corresponding date last year and as the carryover at the end of the crop year, July 31 last, was 108,747,059 bushels all the surplus would be wiped out before the end of next year were the sales to keep up to last year's average. They have run much higher than a year ago for the first half of the crop year.

With reports of European nations, including the United Kingdom, desiring to build up wheat supplies against a possible war, Canada's store of wheat is no longer a worry. The carryover reached the high of 211,740,188 bushels at the end of the crop year in 1932 and was still up to 209,275,016 in 1935.

Receives Souvenir Book

French Minister To Canada Helped Greatly With Vinny Pilgrimage

Ottawa.—Voicing appreciation for the services he rendered on behalf of France during the formative stages of last year's Vinny pilgrimage, Brigadier General Alex Ross, C.M.G., of Yorkton, Sask., Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, presented Hon. Raymond Bruguere, French minister to Canada, with a pilgrim's badge and the souvenir book of the pilgrimage.

General Ross thanked the minister for all his efforts in facilitating the progress of the pilgrims in France.

Resigns Seat

Member Of Quebec Legislature Tenders Resignation For No Stated Reason

Quebec.—Resignation of Dr. Raoul Poulin, the National member of Quebec legislature for Beauce county, was accepted by the government. Dr. Poulin tendered his resignation Nov. 15, giving no reason for the step.

Date for the by-election to fill the vacancy was not stated. Dr. Poulin's resignation leaves the house standing by parties as follows: Union Nationale, 75; Liberal, 14; vacant, 1.

VICEROY OF INDIA HAS DELICATE PROBLEM TO HANDLE

On April 1st the new constitution of India becomes effective in the vast Indian Empire. It took Great Britain more than eight years to prepare a constitution which grants India self-rule with certain reservations, but Gandhi and his Nationalists are not satisfied with it in its present form. They do not wish to have reservations, but to be entirely self-ruling. Because of the acute religious differences in India, the British Government does not see how complete self-rule will work at present, and as a matter of fact only the presence of British police is a safety valve on a veritable volcano of religious strife. Above are pictures of Lord Linlithgow (right), Viceroy of India, and Mahatma Gandhi, the Nationalist leader. In the centre is a map of India which gives a graphic description of the problem faced by the Viceroy and the British Government. The area in white is British ruled, while the black area, with a population of 75,000,000 is under the ruling princes.

Prior to becoming mayor, Mr. Roberts served for 17 years as city clerk.

"Anonymity" was portrayed by Mr. Aberhart on Sunday last. He forgets the fact that as far as the average listener is concerned, the guy broadcasting may be anyone—an anonymous character. Aberhart accuses the press of publishing anonymous articles, yet the press know their business as well as Mr. Aberhart knows the business of his so-called calling. Every article in a newspaper, today that does not carry the name of the author is responsible to the paper.

The Drumbriller Review of last week remarked: "Are the asylums in Alberta so full now that patients have to be discharged before it is safe to let them out at large? Some of the things one hears would go to show that in the interest of safety the Aberhart government should further enlarge the asylum accommodation."

In regards to Sunday night skating at the arena, the collections last Sunday night were better than usual, but were still not up to standard, so if the general public wish to have this pleasure continued, please be a little more liberal with your collection. The arena is only open to adults and high school pupils on Sunday night from this date, children not being allowed on the ice.

During the week, government snow plows have been in action in the district between Lundbreck and Pincher. In many places blocks of snow larger than sedan cars have been moved by these machines. By Tuesday noon, all highways between Pincher Station and the west were well open to traffic. A west wind on Wednesday night, however, considerably blocked the highways again.

Dr. George W. Kerby, principal of Mount Royal College, delivered the "Speech From The Throne" at the annual session of the Alberta Boys' Parliament in Calgary last week. The sessions were held mainly in the college, and the methods of procedure, pomp, etc., were much in line with ordinary parliaments. It is regrettable, however, that some of the greenhorns in major parliaments were not present to learn a thing or two.

In our issue of January the 8th, we reproduced from an exchange what was understood to be Premier Aberhart's New Year message to the people of his BELOVED province. His name was not attached to it, so, according to his idea it was "Anonymous." In this issue, however, we have the good fortune to reproduce (free of charge, as the former) his message to the teachers of Alberta, as copied from the January issue of the A.T.A. Magazine. His name is appended to it, so our readers should feel satisfied that it is Mr. Aberhart's message, and not that of a guise.
